The finest and one of the most artistic trains that ever pulled out of Kansas City left here last night for the annual Shriners' meeting at Buffalo, N. Y. The train was under the personal direction of A. H. Moffett, Southwestern ticket agent of the Rock Island railway. The special train, every car of which has just come from the shops, newly painted and upholstered, will stop to day in Chicago. To-night the party will leave for Cleveland, arriving there in time for breakfast. Buffalo will be reached at 1:45 p. m. on Tuesday.

Two monster engines, brightly burnished and fresh from the shops, pulled the train out of Kansas City, carrying as jolly a crowd as ever assembled. Eight Pullmans one of which was an observation car, and a composite car containing refreshments. with baggage cars, composed the makeup of the train. The sand domes of the two engines had been silvered, about which were painted in black and orange colored paint: "Hot Sand." On the cab window

FELL WITH CRASH.

Collasped-Inmates Uninjured.

The west wall of a two-story brick building at 418 West Sixth fell with a crash The Former Is Dying and the Latter about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and there was some tall scampering on the part of the seven occupants of the frail structure to seek places of safety when they were awakened by the crash of falling timbers and bricks.

The building is occupied by a negress named Mrs. Zonia Shackleford. There were three men and four women in the house—then the west wall fell, but fortunately the rooms on the second floor were unoccupied. The building had been unsafe for some time, although it had never been condemned by the building inspector. Workmen had been employed for several days in putting in a new foundation underneath the west wall and the work was finished late Saturday afternoon.

As soon as the jackscrews and props were removed from the wall it settled a distance of several inches. Mrs. Shackleford became frightened and would not permit any of her boarders to occupy the west rooms on the second floor. Laborers have been engaged for two weeks in excavating for a building on the level. named Mrs. Zonia Shackleford. There

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Chandler, of Jaudon, Mo., died at St. Joseph's hospital at 6 o'clock yesterday morning from the effects of injuries sustained in a passenger wreck on the Kansas City. Pittsburg & Gulf railroad near Grandview last Thursday night. The coroner was notified and the body was removed to Carroll's undertaking establishment. An inquest will be held Tuesday or Wednesday and the remains will be sent to Pleasant Hill for burial.

The deceased was 59 years and 7 months old. She sustained a fractured collarbone and was slightly bruised about the chest in the wreek. She was a widow and had relatives living at Jaudon and Pleasant Hill. All of the other persons injured in the wreck are recovering and none of them are in danger of losing their lives.

Three sons of Mrs. Chandler are living. One, E. E. Chandler, is an attorney with his office at 325 New York Life building. C. C. Chandler, another son, is a banker in Belton, Mo., and a third son, with whom Mrs. Chandler, a business man in Jaudon, Mo.

AFTER THE CONVENTION. Committee Appointed by Democratic Club Left for St. Louis

Last Night. The committee appointed by the Democratic Club of Kansas City to go to St. Louis and confer with ex-Governor Stone and other prominent Democrats and business men there relative to securing the next national Democratic convention for Kansas City, left for St. Louis last night. The committee is as follows: Congressman W. S. Cowherd, H. C. Arnold, John W. Moore, T. M. Spofford, H. J. Latshaw, Bernard Corrigan, Sheriff R. S. Stone, Judge James Gibson and County Clerk T. T. Crittenden, Jr. All of the committee except Mr. Stone and Mr. Crittenden, whose official duties would not permit their absence from the city, went.

The idea is to secure the consent of St. Louis and the support of ex-Governor Stone ness men there relative to securing the

TWO SMALL LAYOUTS. Incoming Park Cars Delayed by Failure of Power-Loose Strand at Fifteenth and Brooklyn.

Too much mud in the water used in the boilers of the Sheffield power house caused a failure in steam and power for the Independence and Fairmount park electric lines last night, and a consequent lateness of the parkgoers in returning from their Sunday last night, and a consequent lateness of the parkgoers in returning from their Sunday outing. The mud in the water cakes on the tubes of the boilers, which become so hot that keeping up the steam sometimes becomes unsafe and it is necessary to shut down and clean the mud from the tubes. The delay last night was not a long one, the cable cars in the town lines having to wait less than half an hour for the incoming park cars.

A loose strand of the Brooklyn avenue cable became entangled in a sheave wheel at Fifteenth street and Brooklyn avenue last night and caused the stopping of that line about twenty minutes between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock.

Back Broken in Three Places.

Robert Smith, the young man who fell from a second story window of a rooming house at 108 East Third street at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning, is at the city hospital in a critical condition. Smith fell a distance of twenty feet and his back was broken in three places. He has only about one chance in 1,000 to recover. The police have investigated the case and learned that Smith fell from the window while drunk. He had been drinking freely for two hours before and he probably sat down in the window, fell asteep and tumbled out. in the window, fell asleep and tumbled out. None of Smith's relatives has been at the hospital to inquire about his condition. He was employed as a laborer in the Westport mills and lived in that suburb.

TOPEKA, June 11 .- (Special.) As a result of a family row here to-day David Jacksen lies in a dying confition at Christ hospital with a bullet hole through his bowers and S. E. Yeoman is confined in the county jail with a bullethole in each arm and a bullet in his hand. Yeoman is an old man and lives in Potwin, a Topeka suburb He has a son-in-law named H. O. Jackson.

The two are canvassers.

Jackson owes his father-in-law $800. Jackson and his wife had a quarrel this morn ing and decided to separate. Mrs. Jackson went to the home of her parents-the Yeo-mans. Jackson concluded to leave the city and he hitched up one of his teams and drove away. He sent his brother, Dave Jackson, back to get the other team and gave him a gun, remarking that he might have use for it. Dave went to Yeoman's and started to hitch up the other team Yeoman warned him not to do so, saying that the other Jackson, the owner, owed him $800, and he proposed to keep the team as security. A row ensued and both dres their revolvers. Jackson shot five times, three of the bullets taking effect in Yeomans' body. One bullet struck in the right Mo., died at St. Joseph's hospital at 6 arm, another in the left and the third in > Yeoman fired three shots also and Jackson was hit three times, once in the shoulder, once in the arm and once in the bowels. The shot in the bowels, is fatal. Jackson will not live till morning.

> B. M. Weldon, a hired man, got in the road of one bullet and was wounded in the leg. Jackson was taken to the hospital and Yeoman and Welden to the county jail.

DR. GODDARD'S TRIAL Missouri's Capital Belief Exists That a Strong Case Has Been

Made Against Him. JEFFERSON CITY, June 11 .- (Special.) It is generally commented on here to-day that Prosecuting Attorney Reed has made a strong case against Dr. Goddard. He has got in evidence showing the motive for the crime and that Goddard had threat-ened to kill him. He has established that a plot existed to kill Jackson and at the session last night he drew from the witnesses for the defense the fact that Jackson had been sent for to come to the hotel on the night of the killing. That Mrs. Jackson is behind the defense in the case he has also established.

The defendant's attorneys have so far lost on the witnesses they have placed on the stand. The prosecution has been able to get information from them which Reed has tried to get all along, but could not introduce witnesses for the state to show. This is that Mrs. Jackson sent witnesses here to aid Goddard, and that she sent for Jackson on the night of the murder. These facts supply the missing link in the chain of the testimony to establish a clear case of willful murder.

Prosecuting Attorney Reed thinks he has made out a strong case for the state. He has handled the case in a manner to draw out all that was material for the state from the witnesses for the defense and at the same time prevent the defendant's attorneys from getting anything of benefit from the state's witnesses.

ST. LOUIS, MO., June II .- A dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent at Lebanon, Mo., says that at 10 o'clock tonight Mr. Bland was reported as resting quietly, but wholly unconscious. The inreased brightness shown by him early in the day and the seeming change for the better in the condition of the patient have been followed to-night by a more pronounced state of coma.

As each alternate day is a bad day with him the family fear the result to-morrow. In his extremely weak condition another sinking spell would probably prove fatal, as his recuperative powers were considerably veakened yesterday, when he was revived only by the rigorous use of the electric brush on the extremities.

On arriving at the racecourse the president drove through the paddock to the presidential box.

Municipal guards and police lined the path across the paddock. Drums beat and trumpets blared when M. Loubet appeared in the front of the box and a scene of intense enthusiasm followed, lasting several minutes, with an uproar of shouts of "Viva Loubet" and "Viva la Republique," which settled finally into a monotonous chant.

The president sat bowing and smiling, with Madame Loubet at his side in a cream lace dress. A portion of the crowd in the paddock shook fists, umbrellas and sticks at the smartly attired people in the jockey club stand adjoining the president's box, but the club men, beyond returning disdainful glances, made no retort.

The only grave incident of the day occurred after the president had returned to the Elysee, at one of the garden restaurants, the Pavilion d'Armendonille, in the Alice de Longchamp. About 5:15, when the establishment was full of customers, somebody made an objectionable remark concerning the president. The people took sides and a regular fight ensued. Bottles, glasses, decanters, tables and chairs were hurled about.

At the same time a crowd of socialist demonstrators arrived in the vicinity and, hearing that a row was in progress, laid siege to the restaurant, shouting "Vive la Republique." The throng quickly swelled to several thousands. The windows of the cafe were smashed, and the struggle was continued within. Finally the mounted police arrived, cleared the neighborhood and closed the cafe. Several persons were injured, including a number of policemen.

The Soir, by such headlines as "A Grand Prix of Anarchists and Police Agents," and "A very Expensive President," seeks to make out that the whole demonstration in favor of M. FORT WORTH, TEX., June 11 .- A number of prominent ladies of Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco and Houston some time ago united in an effort to advance the cause orders kept many society people away from Longchamp. This is shown by the receipts in the "mutuals," which were 1,330,-000 francs below those of last year's Grand as Mrs. Ellen Henroth, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs;

The universal use of perfected smoke consumers in Kannas City is regarded a mode of the rare achievements of a great metropolis. The successful crusade waged in the buttonhole, and marched in the buttonhole and marched consumers hooked outside another prepared metropolis. Rochedort, in fact, has entirely lost this popularity with the buttonhole and marched to what it supposed was the residence. There were considered to the prepared to friends. The schools at Spa were largely patronized by British and American peo ple, and the customs of life were much the same as prevail in this country or gland, the English language being the familiar speech in most circles. Excursions to Ponce de Leon and to the Ardaines were frequent, and Florence Chandler wa inspiring genius of all these delightful occasions, the air of Belgium appearing to bring out in her the highest notes of joy. She was our warbler, and we all loved her feeling as if she was a bright song bird especially given us to prevent ho ness while sojourning in that foreign country. Florence finished her course turned to Mobile, where she was the pet

"In 1881 she revisited Europe, meeting James Maybrick while on board the out bound ocean liner. He was a man of extraordinary polish, and succeeded in winheiress, who was young enough to be the daughter of the man, broken in fortune and in health, with whom she contracted the Ill-starred marriage.

"Her history after the death of her hus band is public property, the press having recounted all the episodes of her trial, conviction and life in her prison, where her wan face, bleached hair and all the indications of a broken heart have been appealing all these years to the world for its sympathetic help—an appeal which has not been in vain. I regard the case of Mrs. been in vain. I regard the case of Mrs. Maybrick as a companion story to that of Dreyfus. The papers on the life of Mrs. Maybrick, written by Baroness Caroline de Roques, throw enough light on the conspiracy to procure Mrs. Maybrick's vindication. It is part of the unceatroverted history of the case that Maybrick to prevent physical collapse, stimulated his exhausted frame habitually with poisons, and was able to take doses of arsenic, strychnine, and other drugs which to a person unaddicted to deadly sulphates and alkaloids would prove fatal. One of the wifely duties required in Mrs. Maybrick's married life was to purchase and administer drugs to her husband, who prescribed for himself, and gave directions to his young wife, which she followed with blind obedience. The heirs of Maybrick got the property of his widow. It served their personal interest to convict her; therefore, she was convicted, unjustly, of a crime she had no part in—a crime, in fact, which never was committed, for the proofs are abundant to show that Maybrick was not murdered. I give the extreme view from the standpoint of absolute bellef in the innocence of Mrs. Maybrick, and the view I have upheld from the beginning is now becoming pretty generally accepted.

Mr. Shepherd owns a small locket, which contines a lock of hair given him by Florence E. Chandler before she became Mrs. James Maybrick. He greatly prizes this memento. Maybrick as a companion story to that of LONDON, June II.—The society for the amendment of criminal law met this week under the presidency of Sir Charles Cameron. The members are keenly interested in the case of Mrs. Maybrick. They include Lord James of Hereford, chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster; Augustine Birrell, the famous chancery barrister and author; Justice Vaughn-Williams and Matthew Wright.

Sir Charles Cameron, who is well known as a prison reformer, said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"The Maybrick case is one of the planks of our society's platform, and now that Sir Matthew White-Bradley, secretary of state to the home department, is reviving the case by Lord Sallsbury's direction and through the pressure of the American government exerted through its excellent ambassador, it will only be a matter of a very short time, in my opinion, before her unconditional release. Until then this strong society will never cease to back up all efforts in that direction."

City of Paris May Be Saved.

FALMOUTH, June II.—The underwriters are still hopeful of being able to save the American liner Paris, now lying on the rocks near the Manacles, and the blasting operations continue.
